(c) and (d) Under the Anti-dumping Rules, a product is considered to be dumped if it's export price is lower than it's normal value (i.e. the price of the product in the domestic market of the country concerned). The imposition of Anit-Dumping duty provides relief to the domestic industry by counteracting trade distortion caused by dumping and the consequential injury to the domestic industry. However, the imposition of Anti-dumping measure does not restrict import from the subject countries. Anti dumping cases are normally initiated on the basis of fully documented petition filed by the domestic industry containing sufficient evidence in respect of alleged dumping; injury and causal link between the two. Designated Authority may also initiate suo-moto investigations if it is so satisfied from the information, received from the Collector of Customs appointed under the Customs Act, 1962, or from any other source that sufficient evidence exist as to the existence of dumping, material injury to the domestic industry and causal link between the two.
